FINE FEATURE FOR REGATTA

 Judge Carney's Baby Show—Yachts
 Arrive from Portland—Regatta
 Notes.

A happy consummation was wrought yesterday and last evening, when it became known positively that the splendid Italian cruiser, the Dogalia, would be in Astorian waters for the first two days of the coming regatta.

This delightful feature was brought to pass through the instrumentality of United States Senator C. W. Fulton and Mayor Herman Wise, acting in conjunction with Dr. Candiani, the Italian consul, the latter gentleman paving the way for the overtures which the distinguished citizens of Astoria, above named, pressed with all the ardor and good will possible.

As soon as the warship was brought to an anchor last night, in the city channel, the three gentlemen boarded her, and after exchanging the courtesies of the hour with Captain, the Marquis Guglielmo Capomazza di Campolattaro, urged upon him a most cordial invitation to remain and share the festivities of the half-week, and the offer was accepted with a readiness that amply manifested the commander's appreciation of the courtesy shown him. He expressed himself as delighted at the visit of the senator and the mayor and said that the ship would remain here until Saturday morning next, as the guest of the city.

The invitation tendered included the official staff of the fine vessel, namely: Messrs. Domenico Ramognino, Guilo Ferrero, Pietro Gottardi, Luigi Capelli, Mario Levera, Giuseppe Miraglia, Augusto Bettoni, Umberto Rosada, Luigi Pascandolo, Giovanni Rolando and Guilo Schezzi, all of whom, with their genial chief, will be the especial guests of the municipality during their stay.

Captain Capomazza also announced that he would permit and arrange for a race between the crews of two of his crack cutters, as an added feature among the water events of the season, the day and hour being fixed and announced later. He placed the ship at the service of the visiting public Thursday and Friday, from 3 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon and in every way showed the spirit of good will and courtesy. He will return the visits of Senator Fulton and Mayor Wise sometime today.

Thus is assured an unanticipated and distinct pleasure for the regatta and the thousands who shall attend it; and the committee and the city owe a debt of gratitude to the three gentlemen who made the accession possible. Admiral F. D. Kuetner of the Regatta instantly evidenced his appreciation of the incident by appointing Captain Capomazza as Honorary Vice Admiral of the Twelfth Annual Regatta of Astoria. And it is needless to say that the officers of the cruiser will all be objects of courteous solicitude on the part of the general committee of the regatta and of the clubmen and social leaders of the city.

The vanguard of the yacht fleet from the metropolis put in an appearance last evening, when the Naiad, in command of Captain G. Dippel, reached the Flavel pier, after being out from Portland since 5 o'clock on Saturday evening last. On board were her owner, L. McKelvey, and Messrs. T. Breyman, Earle Morrison and Charles Hallian. She was followed by the Gaddy with the Corsair bringing up the rear, off Tongue Point, near which the two latter boats anchored with the falling of the afternoon breeze. The gentlemen report a pleasant trip down the river and propose to make the most of the regatta, its events, its social features and everything that tends to engage the pleasure-seeking stranger within Astoria's hospitable gates.

Admiral Kuetner has announced that the formal, public reception of Queen Esther and her navy will transpire at his home, No. 661 Exchange street, on the evening of Friday, from 9 o'clock to midnight, at which time and place the public will have the pleasure of paying its respects to the dainty sovereign and her handsome court. Governor George E. Chamberlain has signified his willingness to make the welcoming address to the queen and her attendants from the grand stand on Thursday morning, at the opening of the regatta proper; and this, of itself, will be an added and welcome feature of the day.

the County Fair will be ready to receive all contributed flowers, this afternoon and tomorrow, Thursday, morning at the County Fair hall in the new court house, and the more the merrier, for all concerned.

The Hannon Milling company, through Messrs. Ross, Higgins & Company, offers a half-barrel of "Queen Ann" flour for the best display of potatoes grown by one farmer and not less than one peck in quantity; a quarter-barrel for the second best display and a quarter-barrel for the third best.

The Jones Milling company, through Messrs. Ross, Higgins & Company, offers one-half barrel of "Vim" flour for the best display of garden vegetables grown by one farmer and not less than five varieties; a quarter-barrel for the second best display and a quarter-barrel for the third best.

The entries in this behalf will be kept open until Friday noon.

The baby show is one of the best organized features of the regatta, thanks to the snap and energy of Chairman Chester Fox. It will come off in the room formerly occupied by the Hess restaurant on Eleventh street, on Friday afternoon and will be conducted under the direct supervision and expert manipulation of Presiding Judge Frank J. Carney, who knows more about babies than some people know about heaven. Handsome sterling silver spoons are to be awarded at all stages of this exhibition of human midgets and the prizes will be plentiful. Judge Carney's associates in this trying and desperate hour will be: Messrs. Hon. W. T. Scholfield, Geo. A. Nelson, Malcolm Barger, H. F. Prael, Judge Olof Anderson, Karl Knoblock, Sheriff M. R. Pomeroy, J. J. Kern, Asmus Brix, Frank Patton, C. A. Coolidge, J. H. Hansen, James Robinson and Geo. Kaboth.

ASTORIA GETS ALL.

TACOMA, Aug. 28.—Astoria walked off with about everything in sight in the election of officers by the Pacific Coast Sangerforbund. The officers chosen are:

Musical director—Professor Carlo A. Sperati, of Decorah, Ia.
 President—S. L. Nantkrup, Astoria.
 First vice president—Rev. August Pedersen, Astoria, Or.
 Second vice president—John O. Berg, Portland, Or.
 Corresponding secretary — Oscar Thompson, Astoria, Or.
 Recording secretary—Rev. O. E. Hahsheim, Astoria, Or.
 Cashier—Charles Anderson, Astoria, Or.
 Marshal—John Blaauw, Tacoma.

After considerable discussion during which the claims of the rival towns were advanced, it was voted to hold the next gathering at Astoria, Or., though the time could not be settled. Considerable objection was made to Astoria's getting about everything in sight, but the Oregon town's success was finally received with good nature.

Patrol Wagon.—The police force was helped last night in their work of making arrests by a patrol wagon which will be used during the regatta. The great need for a patrol wagon as a permanent adjunct of the department was shown effectively last night when the force had transported three drunks and disorderlies to the city dungeons by 10 o'clock and the prospects were bright for a busy night for the patrol wagon. The police officers say that a patrol wagon would amply pay for itself in a very short time by the increased number of arrests which the force would be able to make during a night. There are many offenders who being too intoxicated to walk cannot be taken to jail without a conveyance, and if a patrol wagon was handy no trouble would be experienced and the policeman would not be compelled to be absent from his beat so long as at present when the long walk to the city jail becomes necessary. Most of the arrests are made in the restricted district on Astor street.
